SEPTEMBER/OCTOBER 2021

WHERE WERE YOU ON AUGUST 7 - NATIONAL LIGHTHOUSE DAY?

Henry and Arlene Winkleman visited Connecticut's Watch Hill Lighthouse.

Sharon and Bob Mills bought some of the new Mid-Atlantic Lighthouse stamps and took photos of Cape Neddick's "Nubble" lighthouse lit up at night for York Days.

I had the pleasure of interviewing Sharon Mills, our NELL News editor. Since taking the position, Sharon has been interviewing members of our Board for the news. Now it is time for us to get to know her a little better.

Sharon Mills has lived in Kittery, ME most of her life. She believes the first lighthouse she saw was Nubble Light (Cape Neddick), York, ME, but it wasn't until years later (in the late 1990's) that her interest in lighthouses developed.

A friend of Sharon's sent her a news article about the late Connie Small (the author of the book "The Lighthouse Keeper's Wife") and suggested that she contact her. Connie invited Sharon to visit her at a nursing home in Portsmouth, NH and from there a friendship was formed.

It was after a couple of trips to Cape Cod that Sharon's interest in lighthouses grew. She and her new husband Bob were on their honeymoon in West Yarmouth in May of 1998. The hotel in which they were staying offered a free cruise to Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket which they took advantage of. They were also given tickets for a free Hyannis harbor cruise. It was raining the day of the cruise and nobody else showed up for it. Sharon and Bob were hardy souls and decided to go despite the weather, so they got a private cruise!

Sharon joined NELL in November of 2006 and is also a member of the American Lighthouse Society (ALF) and the United States Lighthouse Society (USLHS). She volunteered at Portsmouth Harbor Lighthouse and is currently a volunteer with the USLHS Passport Program. Sharon has collected a remarkable 20 books of passport stamps and is at the Pharos of Alexandria level! She has seen almost all of the lighthouses from Maine to the Florida Keys, the Florida Panhandle to Port Isabel, TX, and all of the Great Lakes, along with many others in most Provinces of Canada. The west coast may be on her bucket list in the future.

Sharon recently retired from being an in-home caregiver for approximately 20 years. During that time, she provided companionship, did housework, prepared meals and did errands for elderly and disabled people. She still maintains friendships with some of her clients.

One of Sharon's talents is playing the piano. She took lessons as a child for about ten years. Her parents bribed her to practice while they washed the dishes. If she didn't practice, she would have to do the dishes. She now plays regularly at her church.

She has an extensive collection of lighthouse memorabilia, including Harbour Lights and other replicas, books, cups, bells, pictures, etc. Most items are displayed in a former garage where Bob built shelves for her collection. Her Harbour Lights are organized by state. Other collectible items are displayed in her home. Her favorite item is a lighthouse that was carved out of a tree stump in the yard by a friend who is a chain saw carver. (see March/April NELL NEWS for photos of it)

The next time you see Sharon or Bob, ask about one of their misadventures while traveling. They have some great stories and should write a book!

Sharon and Bob's next lighthouse adventure is to Michigan in August. They will visit lights that they haven't climbed yet. I hope to hear about this adventure and see photos when they return.

I personally want to thank Sharon for stepping up to the plate and assuming the position of editor of the NELL News. She has been a very valuable and welcome addition to the Board.

(from the Editor: Here are several photos from the trip we just returned from Aug 29th. #1 is Oswego Light in New York, that I got to climb #2 is Vermillion, Ohio replica light – newly painted at waterfront that's being improved, #3 is Squaw Island in Michigan – saw from Shepler's Cruise out of Mackinac City, #4 is Pilot Island in Door County, Wisconsin from Shore Cruises out of Gills Rock. (Looked like a scene from Alfred Hitchcock's "The Birds".) We saw over 88 official lights, over 30 faux and/or non-official lights, I got to climb 13 towers, and we saw several lenses, life saving stations and other nautical places.

The following article was written by Christine in memory of her husband Tommy who died two years ago on August 3, 2019. We all wish Christine well as she continues her life without her loved husband.

The Lighthouse Hunters Tommy & Christine Cardaci

Story and Photos by Christine Cardaci

My husband Tommy and I met at the Post Office in 1988 as I was starting my postal career. At the beginning, our vacations consisted of tent camping, “stay-cations” so we could work on our home or sailing his 25 foot sailboat. We would pass by some of the NJ, NY or CT lighthouses and not pay too much attention. As time passed we ventured out to see other places. In 1996 we decided to go to Nova Scotia, Canada because we heard it was beautiful. We saw a few lighthouses in our path one of which was the Peggy’s Cove lighthouse. It had a Post Office inside and with us both being letter carriers it was exciting. We mailed ourselves a post card with a special stamp of Peggy’s Cove on it. When we returned home we decided to seek out the lighthouses on our future vacations.

Our first official trip was in New Brunswick, Canada in 1997. We had no idea what we were doing, I assume, like a lot of you back in the day. We picked up a list of lights from an information place and tried our best. At the end of the trip we picked up a new list with tons more lighthouses listed on it, come on. Obviously over time we got better, researched more, bought books and maps and much later a gps. We would take two or three vacations a year seeing as much of the USA as we could. We would return to states to improve our shots by getting closer or having better weather. It was exciting when we went from film cameras to digital. No more limiting our film shots. The cost of developing twenty rolls of film each vacation was nuts.

In 2000 we began getting the joined the NJ Lighthouse Society, 2008 and GLLKA in 2009. lighthouse travel book on the USA. and draw the maps with the dots went on we kept improving and our kept getting higher. We went on we could get to the off shore lights. others who shared the same interest lifelong friends on some of these several private off-shore boat friends. It's exhilarating to be in a plane or boat getting closer to a lighthouse you always wanted to see. The smiles on Tommy's and my face and the feeling of accomplishment, I'll remember forever.

Lighthouse Digest. In 2003 we then ChesLights in 2007, NELL in Back in 2005 Tommy and I wrote a It took eight years to take our photos where the lighthouses were. As time North American lighthouse count several boat trips with the groups so It was so exciting to be around in lighthouses. We met special adventures. Over time we shared charters I organized with our new

Once I left the Post Office I had more time to plan our vacations. I planned in detail and filled our days from sun up to sun down. Tommy liked to do all the driving and he never complained. I would often work on my laptop on the long drives. I'd type in information about the lights we saw or write about our vacations. Tommy was happy because I wasn't bothering him. Ha, ha.

Multiple times we've been to the west coast, Gulf coast, Great Lakes American and Canadian sides, the east coast, and much of Canada. For seven days in the summer of 2012 Tom & Darlene Chisholm, John "Mac"

MacFarland, and Tommy & Chris (me) went to the Canadian side of Lake Superior. For our first boat charter we were on the water for over twelve hours and went 115 miles total. We were so excited to finally see Ontario's beautiful Caribou Island lighthouse. We were on four other charters for the rest of the lighthouses but one ending in Thunder Bay, ON. Mid October we were on a Friends of Flying Santa Buzzards Bay/Vineyard Sound Lighthouse Cruise with many other Lighthouse Hunters. As you know from previous newsletter articles Hurricane Sandy on October 29, 2012 hit us hard! After we fixed our home and rental we were back on the lighthouse trails. In 2013 we took a quick eleven day trip and drove out to the Great Lakes. We finally got out to see all the Isle Royale lighthouses.

Too bad sometimes it was foggy. In different years we lifted both houses eight feet higher. Luckily we were still able to travel in between our work here at home.

For the last few years we focused on the Canadian provinces even more. Then in 2014 a couple on the USLHS Community page contacted us to see if we wanted to travel with them. We hit it off! Over the years the four of us really enjoyed the company, and had dozens of awesome times on their 17 foot Grady White boat with a center console. We explored so much of Quebec's St. Lawrence River and saw so many lighthouses over the years. In spots of the St. Lawrence River the tides were similar to the Bay of Fundy.

The last article I wrote was about our three week trip in 2015 to Newfoundland/Labrador, Canada. What a beautiful place and with kind people. We intersected with our friends, the Meloscis from Florida few times and the Clays from Indiana for an hour. We did all have dinner together before departing the island. In 22 days Tommy drove 5,627 miles and we went 1,012 miles by ferry/boat. We saw 63 new and 43 repeat lighthouses and took almost 6,000 photos.

In the summer of 2016 we met the Chisholms and the Clays in Souris, PEI and boarded the ferry to the small Îles de la Madeleine, Quebec. The six of us had three jam packed days of lighthouses and a far off shore boat trip. This charter was on a 43 foot fishing vessel with a flat deck with six plastic deck chairs for us. The boat trip was 4 ½ hours of torture going around 50 miles total in strong winds and 6-10 foot waves. We were happy to see the Bird Rocks/Rocher Aux Oiseaux with tons of stinky birds and Ile Brion lighthouses. It was great to split the cost between three couples.

In 2017 Tommy and I went back to Nova Scotia for 19 days. Our friends were supposed to meet us here but their car that pulls the boat broke. Tommy and I love to travel together and we had a great time. We improved on many of our shots since the last big trip here was in 2000.

In the spring of 2018 we joined the USLHS and went on their Gulf Coast trip. In eleven days we were on a helicopter for the Delta's off shore lights, several boat charters in Mississippi, Alabama and Florida and the bus. It was a different type of trip for us and Tommy really missed driving. It was convenient having a bathroom on the bus. Tommy climbed nine lighthouses, his 9th was Anclote turning 67 years old and only was a letter carrier for 40 years.

Tommy put himself into the hospital and was started on insulin for diabetes. Once home the tests showed he has Pancreatic Cancer Stage 4. He began a very hard chemo every other week and he got super bad. A month later the chemo was changed. Tommy got so much better and we were so happy! Life mostly got back to normal with chemo every week with a week off. After Thanksgiving he had chemo and we got on a flight to Florida wearing masks. We haven't been down to the bulk of Florida since 2004. We were supposed to there in 2012 but Hurricane Sandy destroyed our houses and we cancelled. Our Florida trip was for twelve days and Tommy drove the whole trip. Tommy took it easy and stayed in the car at times when we revisited some lights. Next we headed down towards the Keys. We took the boat out to Boca Chita Key and I climbed it. The boat trip was 18 miles long. The next day in Key West, FL was the charter plane with Keys Seaplanes www.KeysSeaplanes.com In three hours we went 341 nautical miles photographing 14 lighthouses. Awesome! Florida Keys Reef Lights Foundation www.floridakeysreeflightsfoundation.wildapricot.org organized three days of boat trips. Tommy and I knew several people on these boat trips, especially our friend "Mac". The first day was to see Sombrero Key and Faro Blanco and we went 14 miles in 3 1/4 hours. The second day was for American Shoal and we went 16 miles in 2 3/4 hours. The third day was for Sand Key and we went 14 miles in 3 3/4 hours. This took longer because it was an 80' Schooner Jolly II Rover square rigged Pirate tall ship. Tommy raised one of the huge rear sails; remember he used to own a sailboat. After, we and two new friends drove north and chartered a boat to see Tennessee Reef and Alligator Reef lights. We went around twenty miles. The next morning we and one of our new friends chartered a boat for Hen & Chickens Shoal. We motored twelve miles in 1 1/2 hours. This was Tommy and my 1,616th lighthouse seen. On our way north towards the airport I was finally able to get on the grounds of the Key Largo lighthouse. We had a great trip seeing 12 new lights and 15 repeats and had great food. Tommy drove 1,696 miles.

After the holidays the doctor switched Tommy back to the aggressive chemo (like he had when this first began five months ago). The chemo took more of a toll on him. On March 6, 2019 Alex Trebek announced he has the same cancer and stage as Tommy. As time went on, Tommy's days of feeling good became less. We had his 68th birthday and Memorial Day party with his close friends and family. Tommy thanked everyone for being there for him and he loved them all.

NELL member Deb from PA made it through the rain to say good bye. While waiting for the rain to stop she enjoyed the hundreds of lighthouse vacation pictures of us in the slide show. The funeral home just happened to have the Sankaty Head lighthouse picture for his prayer card. That made me happy and meant so much. At the funeral I was talking to NELL's John "Mac" about our friends from Indiana. I was unaware they drove twelve straight hours to be here. Now those three finally got to meet. We have some awesome lifelong friends that have the same lighthouse passion.

Three weeks after Tommy's funeral the Clays and I traveled to CT, RI and MA. We originally planned this trip so Tommy could be closer to home if we needed. Tommy and I always needed to get closer to Faulkner Island. Well, on Aug. 27, 2019 we motored out to Faulkner Island. We took shots from both sides. "Tommy" visited us as a butterfly while we were on the east side of the light. He came to the boat and hung out and I had tears. He was excited that I was able to finally get close to this light.

I can't believe it's now two years that my love, Tommy's been gone. The Covid pandemic was hard on us all but doing it while grieving was crazy. My weekly zoom grief group reminds me to be grateful for the deep love and awesome times we had together. I plan to go on a lighthouse vacation with the Clays.
